

Normalized: distinct count divided by the first actions in the decile. The panels are shown separately because a smaller sample gives a higher distinct share, so compare trends, not levels.